

First Community Bank Seeds Local Growth

“FIRST COMMUNITY BANK
FOSTERS LOCAL GROWTH.
THAT’S WHY I DECIDED TO GET INVOLVED FROM THE GROUND UP.”

Dick Warpinski, Central Sod Farms
VICE PRESIDENT

Dick Warpinski understands starting from the ground up. He joined his family’s Plainfield sod farm in 1980, and helped grow it into the largest sod producer in the Midwest.

“Even though we green up all over the Chicago area, we are still a Plainfield business that relies on local connections. That’s why First Community Bank in Plainfield is such a great fit for us. The local organizers, investors and bankers know us, understand our businesses and can help us grow in ways an out-of-town bank never could.”

If you want to be treated like you are important—because you really are—come get acquainted with the community bank where People Come First.
